

Are you afraid to sing?

Too embarrassed to sing 'Happy Birthday?'

You can let go of your fear, relax, and have fun

At Joy of Music Co.'s

Singing for Non-Singers' Workshop!

Tone-deafness is a myth!

Singing is a gift given for your own personal enjoyment,
not merely performance.

Join a safe, relaxed, enjoyable, practical,
and "ear-opening" journey
in finding your personal singing voice.
It's FUN!

Saturday, March 21, 2009

10:30 am – 12:30pm

Corner of 143rd and Wallingford @ Haller Lake Church (enter through Wallingford side door) 14054 Wallingford Ave. N. Seattle (1 long block south of 145th – West of the freeway.)

Get some friends together and come along!

Ruth King Goddard M.A.

Ruth King Goddard has been helping non-singers find their voices for over 35 years. She is known by her enthusiastic, patient, and accepting ability to help each participant relax and enjoy growing musically, in the context of fun and acceptance.

Participants say:

"This has been a class I should have taken years ago." "I found I could sing...after all those years." "Very fun, no pressure, relaxed class." "This workshop went beyond my expectations!" "Thank you for giving me my voice!" "You need to go if you need to sing!" "It's about having fun!" "I now feel I can do something I was always told I couldn't." "You made me feel comfortable."
